

DAN/PADI Oxygen Provider Course

The initial treatment for most diving accidents involves the administration of oxygen. By taking either DAN Oxygen Provider or the PADI Oxygen Provider course you will learn how to help yourself and other divers in need of such assistance. You will receive both DAN and PADI accreditation which can be used towards attaining your Master Scuba Diver rating. Your certification also allows you to purchase 100% medical grade oxygen.

To enroll in the oxygen provider course you need to be over 12 years of age and have proof of CPR training within the last 24 months.

You receive a manual which you review in your own time. You then attend the course, at our purpose built dive centre, where you will be taught in our state-of-the-art classrooms using the latest equipment.

The course involves the academic study of the benefits, hazards and equipment associated with the provision of oxygen and then focuses on hands-on practical experience including a series of scenarios.

The course is run over two evenings, and the cost is £99. This includes manual, instruction and certification by both DAN and PADI.
